“The God of Great Endeavor gave me a torch to bear

I lifted it high above me in the dark and murky air,

And straightway, with loud hosannas, the crowd proclaimed its light

And followed me as I carried my torch through the starless night . . .”

FOREWORD

THE 1963 BATTLEFIELD tries to capture, within its covers, a pictorial representation of the life at Mary Washington College. It attempts to record for the student every facet of college life, both academic and social, which makes college so meaningful an experience for each one of us.

The BATTLEFIELD staff realizes in this attempt that many of the intangible aspects of this life cannot be pictorially conveyed. Such intangibles as individual growth, self-knowledge, a sense of purpose, and an awareness of one's world and the individual's responsibility to this world we all derive from the college experience. These, however, cannot be recorded by the camera.

We hope that the BATTLEFIELD, by its pictorial display of life at Mary Washington, will remind each student of these invaluable intangibles which we all derive from the college experience and which cannot be presented within the covers of a yearbook.

DEDICATION

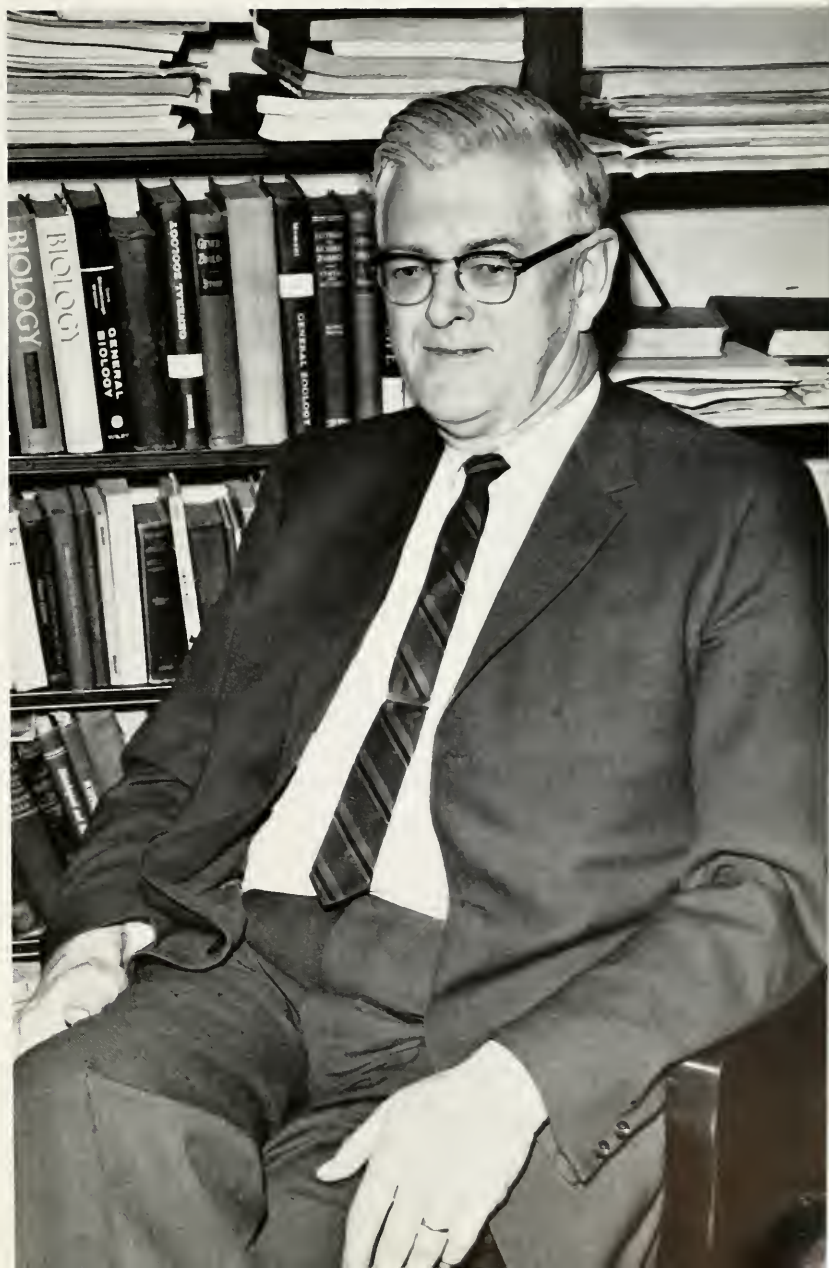

Dr. William Castle is known on the Mary Washington campus as a professor of the highest caliber. Because of his excellent instruction, attendance of his classes is invariably found to be a richly rewarding experience. His attitude toward his students is one of sincere interest and individual encouragement; each student is thus eager to excell.

The Morgan Combs Science Building was planned and erected largely through the efforts of Dr. Castle.

Dr. and Mrs. Castle served as the sponsors of the Class of 1963, and they have been a tremendous help and a great asset to us in planning our class activities and projects throughout our four years at Mary Washington.

The 1963 BATTLEFIELD is dedicated with pleasure and deep appreciation to

DR. WILLIAM A. CASTLE

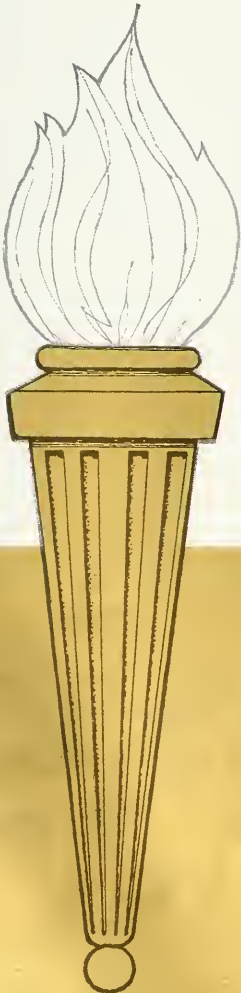

“Till drunk with the people’s praises, and mad with vanity,

I forgot ’twas the torch that they followed,

And fancied they followed me.

Then slowly my arm grew weary upholding the shining load . . . ”

ORGANIZATIONS

Honor Council

The most cherished possession of any individual is his honor. So it is that at Mary Washington our Honor System is our most important tradition. Our honor code is the foundation upon which all other college activities function.

Each of our students pledges that during her life here she will uphold the high standards of honor outlined in our code. This pledge binds our student body together in a feeling of mutual respect. The Honor Council, composed of the four class presidents and headed by a campus-elected chairman, represents the entire student body in the administration of the Honor Code.

KATHY DRUKS FRIEDMAN
S. G. A. President

Student Government Association

The Student Government Association of Mary Washington College gives the students here an opportunity to exercise their abilities as leaders. Its members are elected by the entire student body, and it is their responsibility to carry out the will of this student body in the governing of the college. Their aim has been to create a unity of the student body by coordinating classes, organizations, and dormitories.

Student Government officers are elected in the spring, this year's officers campaigning for election for the first time. During the summer they organized the Pre-School Conference, which is held in the week preceding the official opening of the school year and presents the goals which are to be achieved during the coming year. This year's conference was carefully organized and carried through. When the Freshmen arrived, the members of S. G. A. were on hand to welcome them and acquaint them with the customs and responsibilities of life at Mary Washington.

Much has been accomplished by the present members of Student Government toward accomplishing the sought after feeling of spirit and unity on our campus. By initiating the Sophomore Leadership Training Classes, Student Government gave our sophomores the opportunity of becoming familiar with the duties of the offices they will hold next year. By having open office hours, the members of Student Government made themselves readily available to the entire student body. By encouraging student membership in Student Council committees the students were given a chance to actively participate in S. G. A. activities.

Student government is, indeed, a much cherished privilege and opportunity which accounts for much of the spirit and harmony existing among the students of Mary Washington.

CLARA MIDDLETON.....	Treasurer

The coordination of club activities and the discussion of problems of the extra-curricular program is the function of the Inter-Club Association at Mary Washington College.

The presidents of all the organizations and recognized clubs comprise the Inter-Club Association. The Inter-Club Council, with four executive officers, five ex-officio members and representatives of the nine groups associated with the extra-curricular activities of the college is the governing body of the Inter-Club Association. It helps these clubs plan varied and well-balanced programs.

I. C. A. introduces itself to the freshmen during their orientation program. By presenting its various activities, new students may select clubs well suited to their interests. Another service offered by the Association to freshmen is the learning of how to utilize one's leisure time.

Each fall I. C. A. holds an Open House membership drive so that all students may participate in the activities of their choice. The point system is administered by the Association in order to guarantee an even distribution of leadership and duties. Inter-Club Association is also responsible for the execution of the Honorary Tapping Assembly, the most prominent activity of the organizational year.

The activities of the concert dance group were many and varied this year. They participated in Religious Emphasis Week and journeyed to Richmond to join with dance groups from other women's colleges in a state-wide dance day in the month of February. In March, a combination lecture-demonstration campus concert was held. Concert Dance offers a summer dance program whereby a girl is sent to Connecticut College where she participates in a scholarship course under the instruction of such famous dancers as Jose Limon and Martha Graham.

The talent for Concert Dance is provided by members of Junior Dance, a club open to anyone who expresses an active interest in this art form.

This year, the Players have produced some very famous and exciting dramas — "Hedda Gabler" was performed in the late fall; "The Miracle Worker" in the late winter, and "Look Homeward Angel" in the spring. All these plays have had recent runs in New York city and were highly acclaimed both there and here.

Once each semester, the playwriting and directing classes present a joint program of one act plays with the entire production in the hands of the students.

Several bus trips to Washington, D. C. have been sponsored in order that anyone interested may attend some professional live theatre productions.

In its freshman year each class elects six girls to represent it as college ushers. These girls are selected on the basis of dependability, responsibility and graciousness. Their well-groomed appearance and warm smiles add greatly to Mary Washington's concerts and convocations.

Formal Dance Committee

Each year the most important function of this committee is to arrange the Christmas Formal and the Emerald Ball. This year's Christmas Formal was highlighted by a concert with the "Highwaymen." The Formal Dance Committee continued the tradition of selling class blazers. The profit from these activities maintains an annual scholarship awarded through the National Defense Fund.

Recreation Association

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Roberta Klar, Chairman of Dorm Representatives; Martha Jones, Treasurer; Judy Carson, President; Marianna Flinchum, Vice President; Nancy Pida, Secretary; Miss Greenberg, Sponsor

The Recreation Association, in seeking to promote enthusiasm and good sportsmanship on our campus, offers wholesome, enjoyable activities all throughout the school year. The main project of R. A. is Devil-Goat Day, when the sister classes vigorously compete for a trophy.

R. A. begins the year by selling the traditional beanies to freshmen. Two weeks later the freshmen are given a chance to lose their headgear by competing in games and a noise contest. R. A. also sponsors Sports Afternoon to acquaint the freshmen with various R. A. activities.

Membership is open to all interested students. To keep informed of R. A.'s activities, each dormitory elects a representative. Chairmen of all R. A. sponsored clubs and sports compose the Council, which slates intramural and team competition. Honor teams are sponsored in basketball, tennis, fencing, and hockey. Throughout the year, there are intermural sports played by independent or dorm teams. There is a trophy awarded to the dorm with the best participation. The keen Devil-Goat competition is climaxed in the spring with a full day's schedule of sports and entertainment. The side which has accumulated the most points receives the highly coveted Devil-Goat trophy.

R. A. provides many opportunities by which students may enrich their college lives.

Hoopprints Club

The purpose of Hoof Prints, one of the most active honorary clubs on campus, is to promote enthusiasm and interest in riding. The center of the club's activities is Oak Hills Stables. Here the club members, known for sportsmanship, gather for schooling horses, initiations, work crews, social affairs, and discussion on the finer points of riding. The club sponsors three shows during the year, two open to outside riders and one open to members of the Riding Department only. Off campus events include interscholastic competitions, hunts, horse shows, such as the International in Washington, D. C. and riding clinics with prominent horsemen.

"We, the members of the Young Women's Christian Association, unite in the desire to realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. We determine to have a part in making this life possible for all people." This statement of purpose requires that each member of Y. W. C. A. demonstrate vision, sympathy and courage.

The planning and business details of the organization are discharged by the Cabinet, which is composed of the executive group, the committee chairmen, the freshman representatives, the advisors, and the representatives from each denominational group. The six major areas of concern are social service, fine arts, worship, publicity, community service, and world relatedness. Participation in the activities by the association members is performed through committee work. The entire association meets twice a year to inform the members of prospective events. Outstanding activities of the year were the Big-Little Sister program, the World University Service Drive, and Religious Emphasis Week.

The particular highlight of the year is the Religious Emphasis Week, which takes place in February. This year's theme, "Faith through Anxiety," was explored thoroughly by several sectarian speakers. All students were given the opportunity to participate in discussions, whether on the lecture, seminar, classroom, or personal level. This week offers to each girl the occasion of acquiring a new and better understanding of spiritual values in today's world as well as her own.

The 1963 Battlefield

The Mary Washington way of life, including the most memorable occasions and activities of the college year, is presented throughout the pages of THE BATTLEFIELD. For this reason it has become the most inclusive tradition at our college.

Fall found the various editors fresh and eager to choose their staffs and assume their responsibilities. Salesmanship methods were put into practice with excellent results by the circulation and advertising staffs. The photography staff's sharp imagination brought forth new possibilities for campus snapshots, while the copy and caption staffs worked diligently into the night as pencil points grew stubby and articles took shape. Pounding typewriters revealed that the typing staff was busy trying to meet the overhanging deadline.

Suddenly, smiles of satisfaction and relief appeared on the faces of the whole staff as the pace returned to normal. The book was sent to press.

With the guidance of Dr. Roger L. Kenvin, we have endeavored to present the most cherished experiences and traditions in the 1963 BATTLEFIELD, the Book of the Year.

The Epaulet

Outstanding literary and artistic ability is recognized in the Epaulet, published three times during the school year. This magazine gives students the opportunity to make known their creative abilities in the fields of Art, Music, Poetry, Fiction, and Essay. While serving as an outlet for these student's talents, the magazine is also beneficial to those students interested in publication. Throughout the years, the Epaulet has increased not only in size but in content, thus proving that it is an important means of representing the creative ability of the students of Mary Washington.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

Dr. Grellet C. Simpson

CHANCELLOR OF MARY WASHINGTON COLLEGE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

Our college owes a great debt to Dr. Simpson, its chancellor. Through his efforts Mary Washington has grown, not only in size, but in attitude. Under his leadership our college has continually raised its standards of achievement, and the purpose it is attempting to fill has been more clearly defined.

When Dr. Simpson gave his address at the Chancellor's Convocation, which begins each academic year, we students felt that we were being challenged to evaluate our goals and strive to meet our utmost capacity. We also felt that with Dr. Simpson standing before us as an example, we could not fail to meet this challenge.

BROMPTON, THE CHANCELLOR'S RESIDENCE

The Deans...

Dr. Reginald W. Whidden

ASSOCIATE DEAN OF MARY WASHINGTON
COLLEGE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

There is scarcely a student on this campus that has not come into contact with Dr. Whidden, whether in his capacity as Professor of English or as Associate Dean. His understanding and sincere interest on these occasions never fail to instill a feeling of respect for his abilities and gratitude for his help.

Dr. Edward Alvey, Jr.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

The responsibilities of being dean of a college are very weighty and at times burdensome, but never do they seem to be able to dim the friendly smile and cheery greeting of Dean Alvey. It helps a student feel that she is really a part of her college's life when she is recognized by a member of its administration. The fact that a wonderful feeling of rapport between both students and faculty is evident on this campus is due in part to the efforts made in this respect by Dean Alvey.

We, as students of Mary Washington College, are very fortunate to have such an amiable and highly capable person as Dean Alvey for an administrator.

MISS MARGARET HARGROVE

Dean of Students of Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia

Through her efforts as Dean of Students, Miss Margaret Hargrove has become one of the most respected persons on the Mary Washington campus.

The students and the administration offer praise for her harmonious co-ordination of their needs and desires. Her effective execution of policies through contact with the Student Government Association has promoted a sense of unity among the members of the college community. As well as fulfilling an administrative position, Miss Hargrove is a teaching member of the Classics Department and is at the constant disposal of the students for advice and guidance.

The outstanding abilities and achievements of Miss Margaret Hargrove have earned her the esteem and recognition of the campus.

MISS MARY ELLEN STEPHENSON
Assistant Dean of Students

It has often been said that a person of great insight and concern can never be forgotten by those with whom he or she has had personal contact. Therefore, none of us could ever fail to remember the many times Miss Stephenson, Assistant Dean of Students and professor of Spanish, has given us invaluable help in a tactful and gracious manner.

MISS KATHERINE F. MORAN
Assistant Dean of Students

Because of the cordiality and earnestness with which Miss Katherine Moran meets the students, whether in her classroom as teacher or in her office as Assistant Dean of Students, she has earned the respect of all who know her. It is due to her efforts that the club and social activities of the college are smoothly co-ordinated.

In Memoriam

For his service to the college,
For his outstanding leadership in the field of music,
We honor the memory of

Mr. Ronald W. Faulkner

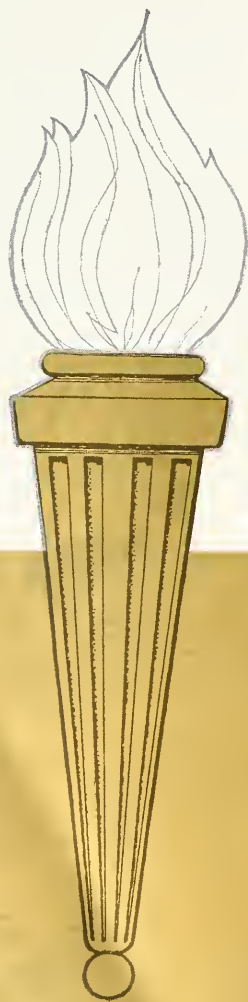

Mr. Faulkner will long be remembered by the student body and faculty of Mary Washington College, both for his contributions in and out of the classroom.

A distinguished musician and author of music texts, Mr. Faulkner instilled in his students a zest for learning and a deep appreciation for music. All who knew him were captivated by his warm personality, which bespoke his sincere love for people.

We will remember Mr. Faulkner with admiration and respect, and we will be ever conscious of his absence from the campus, to which his presence was so great an addition.

“And as I lay in the darkness, the feet of the trampling crowd,
Passed over and far beyond me, its paeans proclaiming loud,
And I learned in the deepening twilight, the glorious verity,
’Tis the torch that the people follow,
Whoever the bearer may be.”

Every year a new class takes its place in Tri-Unit, and settles down to the joys and sorrows of senior year. It is in the natural scheme of things, and yet this year it was an entirely different occurrence. This year it was the Class of 1963, us, that moved into the position of seniors, and we came to realize that this is a special occurrence each time that it happens. It is the beginning of the end of college life, and it is also the beginning of the best part of college life.

The donning of our robes gave us a new feeling of importance. We had earned the right to wear these robes as a mark of recognition of our previous successful endeavors here on the hill. We never donned these robes without remembering these endeavors. Our first class project, the initiation of Co-Ed Day, welcoming our sister class, electing campus officers, selling matchbooks, serenades, Ring Dance, the list goes on and on.

But now we are seniors, and with this new feeling of importance we determined to make our final year our most memorable one. We took on our new offices and fulfilled them with new dedication of spirit. We sold our tote bags to everyone on campus, our May Court was beautiful, our 100th Night Party was the best yet. Our halls buzzed with talk of our student teaching experiences, our job interviews.

And all at once we've reached the point where we use our robes for the last time. Sad, yes, our four years here are finally completed. And yet we leave these robes to the next class with a feeling of satisfaction, for we know that we have taken full advantage of the opportunities offered us during these four years, and we are now anxious to meet the challenges awaiting us in the world for which these years have prepared us.

Tri-Unit

Madison, Custis and Ball got quite a workout this year, as our class settled down to make senior year one to remember. We "U-T'd" in the halls this year instead of twisting, but it was noisy nevertheless. New diamonds sparkled all year long, heels clicked down the halls as we went out to student teaching, we screamed as favorite Marines called or we landed the perfect job.

Down in the basement the Bullet, Epaulet, and BATTLEFIELD went out to press. We hung over the balcony watching for our dates to come in their dress blues to take us to the General's Receptions and the Marine Ball. We admired each other in our caps and gowns for our first convo and partied loudly on the 100th Night. The dorm was cleaner than it had been all year after Senior Day. Custis got a television and a rec room. And, finally we crammed all night for the last exams. Now we await graduation as the final highlight in a wonderful year in Tri-Unit.

"I haven't opened a book yet this semester . . ."

"How many days 'till graduation?"

"They say that television is being used for educational purposes . . ."

We, the Class of 1964, returned to Mary Washington this fall acutely aware of the new responsibilities we would meet in our new position as Upperclassmen. We enthusiastically undertook the planning of fund raising projects for those special class activities of the year.

September brought the emergence of green and yellow beanies, worn by our sister class. Those of us acting as Freshmen Counselors, House Presidents of Freshmen dorms and class officers helped to orient the fellow Goats, who were full of enthusiasm.

"Hotdogs are now on sale in the kitchen" echoed through the dormitories on campus from time to time during the year. This continuous project was handled by some of our more domestic class members.

In November an excellent performance was given by one of the East's most popular college singing groups, the Princeton Nassons. The annual fashion show, but with a new fashion twist, was presented in the spring. All agreed that the new apparel modeled was lovelier than ever this spring.

The Ring Dance, with its soft music and spring enhancement, was the traditional highlight of our year. A certain feeling of pride in being a part of Mary Washington was sensed by all as the class rings were slipped on our fingers.

This feeling of pride helped bring our Junior year to a successful termination. We watched the seniors prepare themselves for their special day and anticipated the following year when the seniors would be the Class of 1964.

Westmoreland

Westmoreland proved to be both a haven and a launching pad for the Juniors this year. We took just enough time to do some serious studying for those first-semester exams, which we managed to live through, and to have one unforgettable Christmas party, complete with the "littlest angel." The rec room was filled with intense young women who had no trouble dealing with both books and ice-cream cones at the same time. The Ring Dance occupied our thoughts from the very first week, and we remained true to our reputation as individualists by changing the format of the entire week-end.

Mixed dorms were the big question—but we know, after living in Westmoreland under the guidance of Mrs. Martin and the protection of Petulance, that the atmosphere of a dorm is made by the combination of personalities living therein, regardless of class.

"Is it long distance?"

"They all look alike to me"

"My, he does have big shoulders . . ."

"I'd rather be a Devil than a Goat" is still the cry of the Class of '65. We proved our enthusiasm on October 1 when the Pep Rally was held. Our class, thanks to the aid of our sister class, succeeded in out-screaming the freshmen Goats. We were quite proud of this feat, as out-screaming the freshmen is quite unusual in this event.

The success of our major project surpassed all expectations, and the sale of doughnuts increased our treasury by a sizable sum. We were trained in our coming responsibilities as upperclassmen in the first Sophomore Class Leadership Training Sessions.

We bid sad farewell to the Golden Horseshoe and our sister class as our second year on the hill came to a close, but we also began to speculate on how it will feel to be Upperclassmen.

Mason Hall

The Golden Horseshoe

The Golden Horseshoe, the grassy plot lying between Anne Mason and Martha Randolph Halls, was the scene of bustling activity on a warm afternoon last September. Some 400 Sophomores, loaded down with everything from stereos to snowshoes, were returning to campus. As soon as curtains were hung and bookshelves filled, we were off to greet old friends and visit "little sisters" (how cute they looked in their little green beanies, and weren't we glad that they were wearing them!)

As the campus took on an autumnal glow, Sophomores took off for Macon, U. Va. and V. M. I. to cheer our favorite football teams on to victory. Thanksgiving came and, along with it, a deficiency or two.

Could we believe that Christmas had arrived already? With the excitement of dorm decorations, the Christmas Ball and choruses singing of "The Twelve Days of Christmas," who could miss it?

After the sunshine comes the rain, and we soon found ourselves isolated by snow and faced with semester exams.

Second semester brought all sorts of surprises and thrills. In just 16 weeks, we'd be Juniors, upperclassmen, no less! We managed to pull through the last dreary days of winter and saw the spectacle of Spring descend upon Mary Washington. "The Chad Mitchell Trio" appeared on campus as a Sophomore project, and May Day came in all its splendor. Finally, the college gates were flung open, and we went our separate ways for the summer.

With some relief and some reluctance, we paid farewell to Mason, Randolph, the Golden Horseshoe, our Sister Class and our Sophomore year. With high hopes and great expectations, we anticipated fall of 1963 and the many opportunities and experiences which awaited us in the future.

It was a beautiful sunny fall day on which the Class of 1965 arrived on Marye's Hill. Green beanies, attached precariously to 650 heads, made it seem as though Mary Washington were being infiltrated by a green tidal wave.

Shortly afterward, we learned all about registration, convocations, handbook rules, bookstore stock, the Honor Code, roommates, and waiting in line. Then—D-Day! Those nasty Devils out-yelled us and although some Goats tried valiantly to resist, the verdict was that we should wear those beanies until their flag flew from Ann Carter Lee.

Once those "hair-style wreckers" were off, we tried to settle into a routine of a round of meetings followed by classes, followed by mixers, club meetings, and blind dates. But eventually orientation was over and with the October election of class officers, we began to really feel an integral part of Mary Washington life. We carried out a successful class project and began to take advantage of all of the opportunities offered us here on the hill.

Willard

As we look back on our freshman year in Willard we know that we will never forget our warm dorm spirit and our many new friends. As Thanksgiving approached we looked forward to our first holiday from school, but to our amazement we actually missed our dorm and even our roomie whom we never thought we'd miss.

Who could ever forget the birthday parties, popcorn popped in the kitchen way down in the basement, dorm parties and especially Christmas and our "Eleven Pipers Piping" in the parlor.

As second semester began, we vowed to study much harder and create the impression of well adjusted college women. Our class project, the raffle of clothes from Carley's and the excitement of May Day came and went. With the coming of warm weather and spring fever we realized that our freshman year was coming to a close. Although it will be sad to leave Willard, we look forward with eager anticipation to our sophomore year.

Interclass Dorms

Brent French House

Marye Spanish House

Marye and Brent are the two foreign language residence halls. Each student majoring in either Spanish or French is required to reside in a language dorm for an entire school year. Spanish and French are spoken exclusively within the dormitory.

Specialized programs are organized within these dorms in order to facilitate the student's comprehension and use of her chosen major language. Seminars, group discussions and study programs are organized for such a purpose. Through such programs, the student is given the opportunity to actively apply what she has learned, via the textbook, in everyday life.

Framar

Trench Hill

Both social and academic interests are pursued in Trench Hill, and Framar which offer the particular advantages of a small dormitory situation. Following suggestions made by students several years ago, seminar programs were instituted in the two dorms to provide the opportunities by which individuals may meet and enjoy intellectual encounters.

In order to provide Home Economics majors with practical experience in home management, Anne Fairfax Annex has been set aside as a dormitory which is run entirely by the students in that major field.

Anne Fairfax Annex

Marshall

Beanies for the freshmen, slumps for the sophomores, one o'clocks for the juniors, and cars for the seniors were the thoughts of the 146 students who marched into Marshall Dorm in September, with bag and baggage which were piled gently onto the elevator.

Our first month was spent in trying to figure out some type of game to play as we marched up the hill, but later we looked forward to sitting in the C-Shoppe, Marshall girl's second home. Then came Christmas dorm decoration time. As a team, we worked together preparing our beautiful display, "Two Turtle Doves."

Exams came and lights burned; second semester came and a new set of Marines flocked; juniors dreamed of the Ring Dance; seniors celebrated their 100 nights, sophomores looked forward to one o'clock in April; and freshmen—we—they looked forward to becoming sophomores. We all had fun living in a mixed dorm and sharing our memorable M. W. C. experiences.

Bushnell

A good word to describe life in Bushnell Dorm would be versatile. Here, girls of all classes share moments of both harmony and excitement. Seniors and Sophomores, Juniors, and Freshmen live side by side. Upper classmen impart to lower classmen a serious attitude toward studies. In the Dorm's spacious "Rec" room, the girls gather to study, cook, or let off steam at parties.

EPilogue

THE 1963 BATTLEFIELD has presented for you life on the campus of Mary Washington College. We all know, however, that what one takes away from college is as important as what one finds there.

The BATTLEFIELD staff congratulates the Class of 1963 on the eve of its commencement. We hope that each student shortly to graduate will apply in her life to come the principles of integrity and the pursuit of knowledge and of excellence that have been instilled in her here. College, after all, can never be an end in itself but must, if meaningful, point to a rewarding and purposeful life outside its ivy-covered walls.

A Salute To The Advertisers

It is appropriate that the 1963 BATTLEFIELD, which is a summary of a year of our life at Mary Washington College, should conclude with an expression of appreciation to the firms whose support and services have proved invaluable throughout the year. We are proud of the cooperation which exists between the students and the firms represented in the advertising section of our yearbook.

On behalf of the students of Mary Washington College, I would like to thank each of you the advertisers, for your contributions toward an outstanding yearbook and a successful school year.

NOW — the time you've been waiting for becomes a time to look back on . . . and build on.

Suddenly, those long-seeming school years are over. What was a daily way of life has become a memory.

This is as it should be. These memories have a purpose. They are the foundation for a future.

You will have more to say about this future of yours than you ever did about the years just past. You—not a teacher or a parent—will be making the decisions. Though teachers and parents can help you, still you're the responsible party.

Being the boss of your own future is a big job. No question about it. And because of this, it is also an exciting and satisfying experience.

American Viscose Corporation, as a member of this community, welcomes you in your new status as a graduate. We offer you all possible encouragement, and wish you success and satisfaction.

By retaining a competent Architect, an Owner will have immediate assurance that his building program will be conceived and executed in an attractive, efficient and economical manner. It is a well established fact that a structure designed by an Architect retains its value through the years and normally continues to function in a higher degree than one built without the benefit of architectural services.
